

AGENDA

24 October 2012 | 9:00AM–3:30PM

9:00–9:15AM

WELCOME, Christopher Goranson & Edward Keller

9:15–9:45AM

OPENING REMARKS, David E. Van Zandt

9:50–11:50AM

PANEL ONE

9:50–10:20

- Christopher P. Cleary, Hacktavists and the Government: How can they Help?

10:25–10:55

- Dr. Simon Thompson, Unknown Unknowns: Why the Biggest Thing in Big Data is the Thing You Know the Least.

11:00–11:30

- Nicolás di Tada, Designing for the Crowd: Beyond Micro-Tasking.

11:35–11:50

- Matthew Willse, The Crowd (Open Data, Citizens, Sensors).

11:50–12:20PM

PANEL ONE DISCUSSION

12:20–1:00PM

LUNCH

1:00–3:05PM

PANEL TWO

1:00–1:30

- Giorgia Lupi, We Live in Narrative Environments: Depicting Places, Perception, and Identity through User-Generated Content.

1:30–1:45

- David A. Curry, Implications of an Eroding Network Perimeter.

1:45–2:00

- Dean De Beer, Supercomputing, Malware, and Correlation (What a year in the life of a MD5 taught us).

2:00–2:30

- Benjamin Mako Hill, Learning from Failures of Collective Action.

2:35–3:05

- Benjamin Bratton, On Secure/Insecure Interfaces: Partition, Immunity, Detection, Prophylactics.

3:05–3:30PM

PANEL TWO DISCUSSION & CLOSING REMARKS

3:30–ON

AFTER-HOURS NETWORKING EVENT

Vapiano

113 University Place

Between 12th and 13th Street

New York, NY